

By innovating constantly and consuming fewer resources, Europe's chemical industry is a driving force for sustainable development.

It is both a reality and a vision.

But the industry must get society on board and work in full partnership with stakeholders for this vision to deliver its full potential.